STAEDTLER

SOUTHERN AFRICA

2026 CATALOGUE

One head, many ideas:

STAEDTLER, Head of ideas.

Every great achievement begins with an idea. Some ideas quietly improve our everyday lives, while others reshape industries, communities and even the world. Whether it comes from a child taking their first creative steps, an architect designing the future, an engineer solving complex challenges, or an artist expressing a vision, there is no monopoly on great ideas. At STAEDTLER, we believe that every idea matters and deserves the opportunity to be brought to life. This conviction is embodied in our iconic Mars head symbol and captured in our enduring brand promise: Head of Ideas.

For more than three and a half centuries, STAEDTLER has empowered people to transform imagination into reality. Our writing, drawing, painting and modelling products are more than tools—they are trusted companions in the creative process. They help individuals sketch, design, formulate, innovate and create. Through these acts of creativity, ideas take shape, problems find solutions, and possibilities become realities.

The spirit of innovation that defines STAEDTLER today can be traced back to its origins. In 1662, Friedrich Staedtler challenged convention and transformed the pencil-making trade in Nuremberg. At a time when pencil lead production and wooden encasement manufacturing were strictly separated professions, he brought both processes together. His determination to break with tradition established the foundation for a more efficient and independent pencil manufacturing industry. By standing firmly behind his vision, Friedrich Staedtler demonstrated the courage that continues to define the company today.

That pioneering mindset did not stop there. Johann Sebastian Staedtler, Friedrich's great-grandson, revolutionised creative expression by developing the coloured pencil as we know it today and making it accessible beyond professional artist studios. Generations later, innovation continued to guide the company's development, not only in products but also in responsibility. Early in the 20th century, former Managing Director Rudolf Kreutzer recognised the importance of both employee welfare and environmental stewardship. His observations on the depletion of natural resources, recorded during a business trip in 1909, reflected a forward-thinking awareness that remains deeply relevant in the modern era.

Today, STAEDTLER SE stands among the world's leading manufacturers of writing, drawing, painting and modelling products, serving customers and creative minds across the globe. While the company remains rooted in its heritage of quality and craftsmanship, it has continued to evolve in response to contemporary challenges and opportunities.

At the heart of this progress are the more than 2,200 employees worldwide who bring STAEDTLER's values to life every day. Their expertise, creativity and dedication ensure that the company continues to develop products that inspire learning, creativity and innovation for customers across generations and cultures.

As STAEDTLER looks toward the future, the company remains guided by the same principle that inspired Friedrich Staedtler more than 360 years ago: the belief that ideas have the power to change the world. STAEDTLER continues to provide the tools that help people turn thoughts into action and imagination into achievement.

One head. Countless ideas. Endless possibilities. That is the legacy of STAEDTLER—and the future it continues to help create.

STAEDTLER Mars® Lumograph®

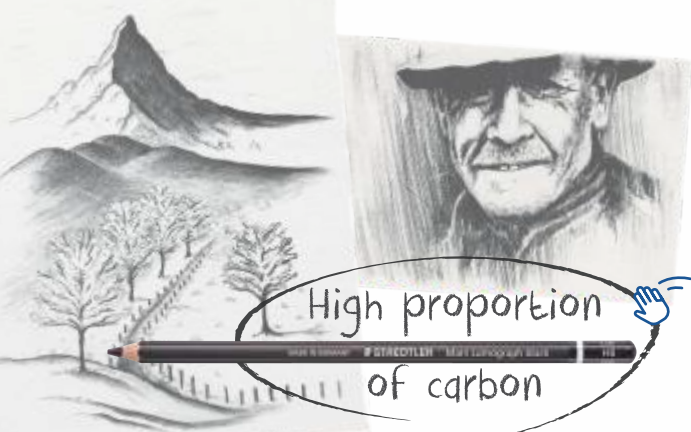

A product with tradition and potential.

The pencil is closely linked to the history of the STAEDTLER company: Friedrich STAEDTLER was first mentioned as a Nuremberg pencil maker in 1662. Today, the unmistakable pencils from STAEDTLER have been renowned throughout the world. In the winter of 1900, STAEDTLER registered the word mark "Mars" with the imperial patent office in Berlin. Soon afterwards, the Mars Lumograph pencil became an integral part of the STAEDTLER assortment. The high-quality drawing pencil with its classic blue design in particular stands for the Mars brand and STAEDTLER's way of merging tradition and innovation. Over the years, this allrounder has been expanded to a diverse Mars Lumograph assortment. With a wide variety of features and degrees of hardness, the range offers the right pencil for every demand.

Colouring

A world of colour at your fingertips

STAEDTLER is justly famous for its coloured pencils which include standard, jumbo, erasable and watercolour ranges to name but a few. All offer the same unbeatable combination of rich colour and excellent performance.

Our Noris® colour pencils are now even more sustainable and durable as they're made from Upcycled Wood! The change to how they're made means we can use reclaimed wood chips in the manufacturing process. This procedure saves trees and gives previously discarded wood leftovers an upgraded life as high-quality STAEDTLER pencils.

Alongside coloured pencils are vibrant fibre-tips, crayons and paints to meet every colouring need, for all ages.

* very good lightfastness
 maximum lightfastness

By the way, each pigment arts pen and Mars Lumograph colour aquarell includes the colour name and lightfastness rating on the barrel.

We value sustainability! That is why the barrel, cap & end cap of all our pigment brush pens are made of 97% recycled plastic!

What's Multi Ink® exactly?

Brilliant colours • High lightfastness
Premium pigments • Permanent

All pigment arts pens feature our innovative Multi Ink – a water-based, translucent India ink made with high-quality pigments. It combines extreme lightfastness with exceptional colour brilliance, ensuring no fading or colour change, even after years of exposure to light. Once fully dry, the ink allows smudge-free overpainting, is permanent and waterproof, with no bleeding or show-through on paper. Fast-drying and highly versatile, it performs beautifully on all types of artist paper and almost any surface, making it ideal for mixed media techniques.

CSI: Corporate Social Initiatives

South Africa is a nation rich in diversity, culture and natural beauty. From its beautiful mountain ranges and expansive coastlines to its bustling cities and extraordinary wildlife, it is a country that continues to inspire people from around the world. However, alongside these many strengths, South Africa faces ongoing social and economic challenges. The reality of inequality remains visible across communities, where access to quality education and opportunities are often limited.

We recognise that education is one of the most powerful tools for change that plays a vital role in shaping a more prosperous future. For this reason, we support schools and organisations in mostly underprivileged areas across the country by assisting with educational resources where they are needed most.

The importance of supporting education also goes beyond our shores. Annually we hold a "World Kids Colouring Day" campaign in May, that is a global initiative aimed at providing access to education for children across the globe. Many millions of Euro's are given back through this initiative.

Our aim is to help create environments where young people can realise their full potential, regardless of their background or circumstances.

Guided by the spirit of Ubuntu, we at STAEDTLER South Africa believe that we have a responsibility to contribute positively to communities in our country. We are committed to creating a meaningful and lasting impact.

By investing in young people today, we hope to contribute to a future generation of creators and leaders who will help shape a stronger South Africa and world. One pencil at a time.

The very best for our environment
